Guild Indian Fair & Market Marks 50 Years

Not many Valley events can boast a 50-year history, but the Heard Museum Guild Indian Fair & Market is stronger than ever in its golden anniversary, thanks to an army of volunteers, artists, performers and Heard Museum staff who work tirelessly over many months to bring the event to fruition.

To celebrate this milestone, the Heard Museum Guild has pulled out all the stops, and you won't want to miss any of these festivities!

50TH ANNIVERSARY KICK-OFF CELEBRATION

January 10, 6 p.m.

Kick off the 50th Anniversary with an elegant evening reception featuring an exhibit of memorabilia from the last 50 years and the unveiling of Chippewa painter David Bradley's signature poster. Reservations required and limited. Cost is $25 per person.

50TH ANNIVERSARY PAINTED PONIES

Tickets on sale now through March 2

Six renowned Indian artists – Caroline Carpio, Anita Fields, Teri Greeves and Dennis Esquivel, and Terrance Guardipee and Catherine Black Horse – have created four 2-foot ponies that will be available in a drawing on March 2, with proceeds benefiting the Heard Museum Guild American Indian Student Art Endowment Fund. Ponies were donated by The Trail of the Painted Ponies in memory of Gary Avey, creator of Native Peoples magazine. Tickets are available for $100 each and are limited to 1,500.

BEST OF SHOW RECEPTION

February 29, 5:30 to 8 p.m.

Meet the artists, see award-winning artwork, bid in the silent auction and enjoy an elegant dinner reception. Reservations required and limited. Cost is $50 per person.

EARLY BIRD SHOPPING FOR MEMBERS ONLY

March 1, 8:30 to 9:30 a.m.

Don't miss out! Members get to shop before the gates open!
